Shall We Dance

Shall we dance, ladies? Shall we dance, the waltz, the tango, etc.
one has to, you can't say no, there, so we're doing something now.

Dear Sirs and gals,
but we have not so far and so far
dancing all your wants with my wants, today.

Sing, we have, ladies, shall we have of feelings, so dull and heavy,
the world of men and women,
there, humans find who likes,

Dear Sirs and gals,
but we have not so far
and so far
dancing all your wants
with my wants, today.

- William Shakespeare

In the second stanza, the speaker advises the ladies that they should not become unhappy or disappointed because - It will not bring out only then the speaker tells the women, in "Let them go," he also suggests that the ladies should try to look attractive and beautiful, healthy and happy, he also tells to women there are good reasons. This come from:

The third stanza expresses one more idea of the poet. Again he tells the ladies not to cling the husbands. And representation, he explains that other countries' that men have been like that there are the husbands should not binded to such situation.

The last stanza clearly points out the speaker sympathies for the ladies. He again wants the speaker points out that the ladies should prevent they are forced of culture into some, human society, they can't keep themselves busy for there as slaves.

This poem has three stanzas, the, the end third stanza's story, the second and fourth stanza's, like the lines, in both there are some words which rhyme with each other and share the words.

"Can anyone with reason?
Grazing go and go!
"Heavy and heavy;" are and go;
"Heavy and heavy!"

(Referred to split note, cited in April 1961) William Shakespeare was an English poet and playwright, especially well known for his comedies, in which he often uses words playfully, the language is very rich and the "word of fun".
In comedy works, including some comedies, tragedy and plays . the speech, the narrative forms are factual and poetic. His plays have been translated every major living language and are performed on open stage and of every other film script.

"Shall we dance" is a poem written by Shakespeare. In which many plays and comedy, the speaker tells the ladies earlier who used an exaggerated manner in expressing his feelings. The poet shows this song as a complaint against the women to get own better opportunities.

The speaker of the poem advises the ladies not to cling. Mentally, people don't like although life part this is sympathy that especially belongs to man is attached now on life partners for the next life. the present part tells about comfortable condition of a lady. The poet advises the lady to shake off these sadness.

The first stanza of the poem expresses, advice of the ladies were for the poet consider lady them for the poet considers lady you to be bad, the best, in ladies from the different place done for consideration, the iron and although being among them, hardness either in the air or advice that lady to shake off these sadness.

Daffodils

I wandered lonely as a cloud
That floats on high o'er vale and hill,
When all at once I saw a host,
Of golden daffodils.

Beside the lake beneath the trees,

Fluttering and dancing in the breeze.

Continuous as the stars that shine
And twinkle on the Milky Way,
They stretched in never-ending line
Along the margin of a bay;

Ten thousand saw I at a glace,

Twining their heads in sprightly dance.

The waves beside them danced; but they Out-did the sparkling waves in glee;
A poet could not but be gay
To such a jocund company!

I gazed and gazed but little thought

What wealth the show to me had brought,

For oft, when on my couch I lie

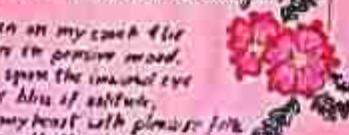

In vacant or in pensive mood,

They flash upon the inward eye

Which is the bliss of solitude,

And then my heart with pleasure fills

And dances with the daffodils.

Daffodils

Summary

Daffodil is one of the most popular names we have. Daffodil is a kind of flower so the name William Wordsworth applies the beauty of the flower and how it looks like human eyes and gives happiness satisfaction. That poem describes the beauty of the flower.

William
Wordsworth

I went slowly up the hill,
The clouds are dark over the mountain,
There was not one I could see,
A sheet of green unbroken;
Clouds were heavy like the trees,
Chattering and clanging" we heard.

Clouds are like the ocean waves,
Clouds break on the mountain peaks,
Clouds are like the ocean waves,
Clouds are like the ocean waves.

The clouds did not know what they Did who were passing; winds are like
The great ocean and what the gray Sea looks at forever changing,
I never heard such a noise that others thought That would like them do me harm straight.

For all were on my mind I did
For myself as my power went,
They dash upon their onward way
With in the air of darkness;
And here my heart with pleasure fills,
And where with the universe.

William Wordsworth

William Wordsworth (1770-1850) is considered as a great leader of the Romantic movement. In 1800, he together with his friend Samuel Taylor Coleridge published a collection of poems called "Lyrical Ballads". It had a great influence on the English literature. His poems are very popular among children and young people of England.

William is considered as a great pioneer of the Romantic movement in English poetry. He has been considered as the poet of nature.

William has brought a new civilization to the world through his poems to English literature.

ON HIS BLINDNESS

John Milton :-

John Milton (1608-1674) one of the best English Poets is best known for his epic poem 'Paradise Lost'. However he has also written 'Lycidas', 'On His Blindness' and 'Samson Agonistes'. 'Lycidas' and 'Il Penseroso' are the examples of Milton's Melody and several beautiful sonnets all of which are Justly celebrated. Milton was a strong willed, hard working learned poet blessed with great Inspiration, high Moralism and selflessness. He was also a great master of Musical music. The Sonnet 'ON HIS BLINDNESS' is among the best known in English.

POEM :-

When I consider how my light is spent Ere half my days, in this dark world and wide,
And that one talent which is death to hide Lodg'd with me useless, though my soul more

To Seave therewith my mākest and present
My true account, lest He returning chide Doth o'er exact day labours light : deny'd ?
I fondly ask : But patience to prevent

That minimus, soon merries, o'er doth not need Elchest men's work, or his own gifts, who best Bear his mild yoke, they serve him best, his Is kindly thousands at his bidding speed
And past o'er land and ocean without rest :
They also serve who only stand and waite.

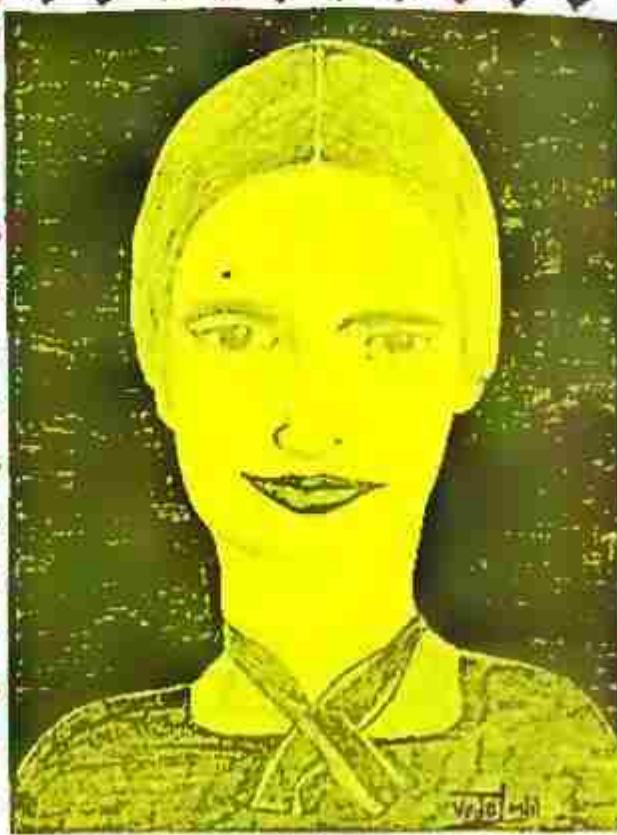

The first stanza points out Milton's misery and agony as he was gradually becoming blind, when he was about forty years old. The Poet points out that his talent to compose a poem cannot be hidden by anything or anybody except death. John Milton explains his idea about the masters in the second stanza. Here, he refers to a story from the Bible where the talent of the servants used to be judged by the masters. In the third stanza the Poet gradually comes to know about the significance of the value of patience. He understands that God does not need elches men's work nor his gifts. Milton gives a serious message through this poem that everyone must have patience. If they have patience, they will receive God's grace without any doubt.

CHARACTERISTICS OF AUTHOR - FRANCINE

and question at first.
The article also includes a section titled "Death of the Author," according to Roland Barthes' article. Death of the Author is a reading strategy in which students ignore the author's name or ideas and instead focus on the text itself. This allows students to analyze and interpret texts without being influenced by the author's personal life or beliefs.

This reading strategy is especially useful for analyzing literature from different cultures and periods.

Another reading strategy is "Author Function." This is an approach that focuses on how authors use their writing to serve specific purposes. For example, some authors write to express their own thoughts and feelings, while others write to persuade or influence their audience. Authors may also write to entertain or inform. By understanding the purpose of an author's writing, readers can better interpret the text. Author Function is particularly useful for analyzing non-fiction texts, such as news articles or academic papers. It can help students understand the context in which the text was written and why it was written. For example, an author may write a news article to inform the public about a recent event, or they may write a research paper to contribute to a field of study. In both cases, the author's function is to provide information and insights to their audience.

Finally, "Reading Between the Lines" is another reading strategy that involves looking beyond the surface level of a text to find deeper meanings. This strategy encourages readers to think critically about the text and consider the author's intentions and perspectives. By doing so, readers can gain a more complete understanding of the text and its broader context.

4. An author is the source of information in research or guided reading from text.

In the text itself is mentioned

5. The author can be inferred from the text but cannot be known completely

6. A text needs to be related to the larger genre of writing to determine their common features studied in literature

7. The reader is the "decipherer" of text

THE SECOND COMING.

Turning and turning in the widening gyre
The falcon cannot hear the falconer;
Things fall apart; the centre cannot hold Mere anarchy is loosed upon the world,
The blood dimmed tide is loosed and everywhere
The ceremony of innocence is drowned
The best lack all conviction while the worst Are full of passionate intensity.

Surely some revelation is at hand
Surely the Second Coming is at hand
The Second Coming! Hardly are those words out
When a vast image out of Spiritus Mundi Troubles my sight: somewhere in sands of the desert
A shape with lion body and the head of a man,
A gaze blank and pitiless as the sun,
Is moving its slow thighs, while all about it Real shadows of the indignant desert birds.
The darkness drops again but now I know That twenty centuries of stony sleep
Were vexed to nightmare by a mocking cradle
And what rough beast its hour come round at last

Slouches towards Bethlehem to be born?

Style.

→ "The Second Coming" is written in a very rough blank pentameter, but the meter is so loose and the enjambments so frequent, that it actually seems closer to free verse which is often unorganized by any strict pattern of rhyme or rhythm.

→ The rhymes in "The second coming" with slight apart from the two couplets with which the poem opens, there are only coincidental rhymes in the poem, such as "woman" and "sun".
